Hollywood Is Ready to Give “Love” a New Definition

In case you thought the influx of Christian films was boding well for Hollywood, think again. This year’s blockbuster Valentine’s Day release is Fifty Shades of Grey, a movie based on the bestselling novel depicting and celebrating abusive sex as a love story. Once again, we are left to shake our heads at the mindset of the entertainment industry. Or, perhaps, it’s time to speak up and say something.

Why Should YOU Be Concerned About Fifty Shades? It’s Only A Movie ...

Leading up to Valentine’s Day, we are going to be inundated with commercials and online chatter about why we have to see Fifty Shades of Grey. Yet the movie is obviously not for everyone. Read what one blogger writes:

“All the buzz about the movie brings up a dilemma for me as the parent of two girls who are grown, but still forming their sexual identities: Do I really want my daughters seeing a warped, sadomasochistic relationship, dressed up as a Hollywood love fantasy? ... But the idea that my daughters would see the romance in Fifty Shades as something to be aspired to makes me just a little uncomfortable.”

Surprisingly, these are the words of a CNN senior producer on the CNN Parents Blog. It’s also been reported that Dakota Johnson’s leading role is causing a rift in her Hollywood royal family (her grandmother, father, and mother are all well-known actors) because of the storyline and the scenes she filmed.

So Where Do We Turn? How About an Old Fashioned Love Story?

As Christian leaders, shouldn’t we be even more uncomfortable with the thought of Fifty Shades of Grey impacting our culture and our people? Fortunately, a faith-based love story called old fashioned also opens on Valentine’s Day weekend. This upcoming battle for the hearts and minds of our culture presents your ministry with a unique opportunity to lead the way. Will YOU be a decisive influence in this battle? Will you boldly affirm the biblical truth of God’s plan for love—a beautiful pathway to relationships filled with forgiveness, healing, and grace?

Celebrating Singleness and Godly Romance

In old fashioned, Clay is a single adult who would prefer to remain single rather than participate in meaningless dating rituals. When he meets Amber, they try something almost unheard of: aim to become the right mate rather than just a good date. This movie will allow for long-overdue meaningful conversation and positive action surrounding love and relationships. And it starts with a trip to the movie theater. Encourage the singles you influence to make the most of this opportunity by seeing old fashioned when it opens on Valentine’s Day weekend.

- ♥ Create a teaching series on dating, romance, and true love for singles
- ♥ Have a group Valentine’s date: go with other singles for dinner and to see the movie
- ♥ Invite a friend who wonders what role God could have in a dating relationship

However you do it, know you are part of an important cause. After all, when did God’s plan for romance and marriage become ... old fashioned?
